12	13.3	PERFECT PAIRING	3.7 ^	1	SMILING ONE	>>>>>>>>>>

The race: Average tempo at best, leaning to slower but there are always queries with these 2200m races. Massive Glory has gone forward most runs and has the speed and draw to lead them here, Young Fighter has speed and up sharply in distance, while out wider Golden Fortune (HY Yuen) likely pushing forward with the 7-pound claimer. Our Lucky Glory another up sharply in distance, certainly has the pace to be forward if that's wanted? Sharpen Bright taken back l/s wide gate Sha Tin 1800m & does seem to have lost some pace now as a 7yo but has had 7 starts this c/d previously and usually in the first four?

The market: Not a couple of favourites that carry a lot of confidence but both Star Brose and Perfect Pairing going ok in their way just short enough. Ocean Impact likely to attract plenty of support coming out of the same race as the two favs l/s when he should have finished much closer after finding big traffic in the stretch.

Recommendations: OCEAN IMPACT has not had thnings work out since drop to C5 but this looks the right set up. Taking 5.0 with bookies – 8.5 units. SHARPEN BRIGHT has 2 wins, 2 seconds, 2 fourths from 7 attemps this c/d. Not been suited 3 runs since going back to Hall yard but this suits and can improve at odds. Taking 21.0 with bookies – 1 unit.

	Rating		Current	Draw		Tempo = > AVE
1	6.1	GOLDEN FRIENDSHIP	4.9	12	ZETA HEDGE	>>>>>>>>>>>>

11		GIMME FIVE	21 ^	2	ALWAYS MY FOLKS	>>>>>>>>>>>>
12	23.4	THOUSAND CUPS	20	1	MAPOGO	>>>>>>>>>>>>>>

The race: Average pace at least, likely faster. Purton goes on Mapogo, who is fast enough to lead from gate 1 anyway but now has Blkrs going on as well, but there looks no shortage of runners looking to apply pressure to him, right across the draw.

The market: Mapogo early fav, as he is every start, and his one positive change today is the addition of Purton but market has moved against him late every start recently and won't surprise if that happens again. Always My Folks narrowly beaten similar race l/s, gets the 7-pound claim tonight and probably finds the back of Mapogo in the run so expect him to at least challenge for favouritism. Tjis distance might not be Lean Master's best but has won 2 races at it. Was a 7.3 chance l/s when caught wide similar race, drawn a little better now and expect him to be shorter at race time.

Recommendations: Taking16.0 LEAN MASTER with bookies. 3.5 units. TACTICAL COMMAND down to C5 again, where has won 2of 9. Will get a long way back but finishing strongly as leaders tire. Taking 26.0 with bookies. 1 unit.

11		BETTER AND BETTER	16	2	GALLANT TRIUMPH	>>>>>>>>>>>>>>
12		SHOW ME YOUR LOVE	20 ^	1	AGENT	>>>>>>>

The race: Pace looks slower than average here, with only one obvious leader, the debutant Gallant Triumph (Chadwick), who has been quite bombproof at the start in 3 HK trials and did show speed in 2 jumpouts in Australia as well, under the name Eindhoven. The lack of leaders is, in itself, some sort of red flag though as there are others who might roll the dice on getting forward. A couple of those are Lunar Dash and Vigor Eye from awkward wide gates, but the more obvious alternative pace would be Super Sixty, stepping up from 1000m races. He hasn't run at 1200m since May 2025 but didn't lead then, preferring to take a sit even when he won. A possible pace surprise packet is Show Me Your Love (ML Yeung), whose starts have been hit and miss but he does show pace once he hits the ground?

The market: Not surprised to see Cummings debutant Gallant Triumph the favourite. Trialled well in Australia, trialled well 3 times in HK and his gate manners and speed are good. To nit pick, he has not really run times in his HK trials – has been fast early or fast late but has not been both but has been priced by the market like he can be. Has map advantages over anything else in the market so expect him to keep favouritism.

Recommendations: Gallant Triumph short enough. NEVER SETTLE ran on well f/up with tempo against him. Looks to have the same problem here but always shown above average talent. Taking 4.0 with bookies. 6.5 units. LUNAR DASH has been disappointing but hasn't had much go right since dropped from C3. Drawn no help again but has the ability. 1 unit. BULLISH NOVA was knocked right out of race l/s this cd at 600m. Awkward draw no help but has the form to be contender. 1 unit

11		LUCKY TOGETHER	20 ^	2	JOY TOGETHER	>>>>>>>
12	5.5	RED BRICK WARRIOR	8.3 V	1	FLYING AMANI	>>>>

The race: Average tempo at best, leaning to slower. Red Brick Warrior was a bit slow away but still went through to lead l/s after leading all the way at a good pace in C5. Expect him to be looking for the front again here in a race where not many will be. Class (Ferraris) is fast enough to go with him, though he might just choose to sit outside him rather than get into a fight. Expect Gazeley (CY Ho) to show pace under them but more likely to trail and Lucky Together Chadwick) has an awkward draw but might choose to be positive at first then trail. Comic a query – never in the race wide gate 1400m debut but up in distance, low draw and positive rider, he might be more positive here?

The market: No argument with Gazeley as one of the major players here now that he draws well, but looks well found In a tricky race, all the same. Red Brick Warrior well bet l/s coming off leading all the way C5 but missed the jump l/s, had to be chased through to get to the front and was found out at the finish. Expect him to be shorter and so too Class, the other runner going forward here in what looks a soft tempo.

Recommendations: Can find a few to back but not with big confidence. MORGAN SUCCESS ran a number of good races in C3, he disappointed f/up this season first time C4 but prepared to give him another chance at odds now he has had that run under the belt and maps well. 1 unit at 21.0 with bookies. CLASS is 8.5 with bookies – 1 unit.

11		PHOENIX LIGHT	10 ^	2	ENJOY GOLF	**>>>>>>>>>>>>>>
12	9.5	WORD OF KINDNESS	9.4	1	KING LOTUS	**>>>>

The race: Average tempo at best, potential for slower. Enjoy Golf (Bentley) a regular frontrunner, with a low draw and light weight and expect him to look for the front and control of the race. There is little speed around him, so he should get there easily & it would look the set up for a slow tempo but for the pace horses drawn wide, Navas G (Cheek Pieces on, Hewitson) and Ever Wealth, with the 7-pound claimer, looking to get forward and across. Not entirely sure how Falcon Hunter will be handled here – he was box seated from gate 2 f/up and gate 1 when he won l/s but got further back gate 8 in between. He may got back here, though it doesn't look much of a tactic, but does have an opportunity to get a drag forward and over with those wide-drawn leaders? Spicy Bonus hasn't been much of a beginner in 3 starts so far but trialled Nov 3 with a couple of gear changes (which he has here) and did jump better? Word Of Kindness was a chronic start-misser last season but led in recent trial wins for new trainer?

The market: King Lotus has not been in C4 for a long time and has a bit on these on his old form. He has Purton, gate 1 and it would be a surprise if he isn't favourite although he will get back. Falcon Hunter going well and, from a draw, would have been a very serious threat to the fav but sticky barrier counts against him. Navas G also has difficult draw. My Day My Say has trialled ok and is going to win races but looks too well found here. Word Of Kindness interesting runner after 2 recent trial wins since changing trainer. He ran one very good rating l/season as 3yo but his other runs were a mix of missing the start, and finding interference. He has led in his trial wins so he looks to be going better for the new yard and the market reflecting that.

Recommendations: At 3.3 with bookies, KING LOTUS looks a bet – 5 units. WORD OF KINDNESS is 13.0 – 1 unit.

11	18.6	I AM BACK	25 V	2	EVERSTAR	**>>>>
12		EVERSTAR	28	1	GEORGIAN SIGMA	**>>>>>>>>>>>>>>

The race: Good speed. Boltz has been a mixed bag to date but showed speed first start in June, and again in latest trial Oct 30 when bounced out and led with a change of gear that he also wears here? The other pace horses are more reliable, Georgian Sigma (Purton) and Superb King, who has drawn wide but has the 7-pound claimer so expect the intent with be very positive. Harmony Fire (PN Wong) and Copper Core (KC Leung) have good pace. Happy United has speed but not always ridden that way from wider gates?

The market: Purton goes on Georgian Sigma here from gate 1 and the 4yo has been very consistent, with a win and 8 other placings from his 11 starts. For all that has never looked any star but looks the right fav here. Superb King has better ratings than Georgian Sigma and beat him l/s, now meets him better at the handicaps after the claim, though drawn awkwardly. Master Resolute's best rating him in the picture and was good effort f/up but his win before summer break was common. Country Pride went better getting beaten unluckily than he did l/week when every chance and back in distance with tricky draw here.

Recommendations: Won't be surprised if Georgian Sigma wins but don't want the short odds. SUPERB KING 6.0 with bookies – 1.5 units. PERFECT ONE won a weak griffin race only start and resumes here – 17.0 for an unbeaten 3yo looks a bet. 1 unit. HAPPY UNITED has the ratings to win, doesn't have much of a draw though, as has been the case lately. 2 units.

11		PRIME SUCCESS	24 ^	2	PRESTIGE GOOD	>>>>>>>>>>>>
12	12.1	TURIN CHAMPIONS	13	1	CALL ME TOPSEED	>>>>>>>>>>>>>>

The race: Average tempo at least, leaning to something faster. Call Me Topspeed has been showing good pace for some time despite a series of wide draws & now gets gate 1 with a light weight, so expect him to be very prominent early, though he does have the option to take a trail too, as speed horses from wide come across. Prestige Good (7-pound claimer HY Yuen) also has that set up. Newcomer Lions Spirit (ex Throttle Response AUS) had an on speed style overseas and in his most recent trials, though he did wear Blkrs in those and does not wear them here. Riding Together (Teetan, Cheek Pieces on), Windlord (Purton), Highland Rahy (Ferraris) and possibly Turin Champions also look for positive positions. Purton goes on Windlord – perhaps some chance he will ride him more negatively than he has been lately before missing the jump l/s and getting back?

The market: No surprise to see Prestige Good fav – has had a series of difficult runs in His races, the latest wide and overracing this c/d from wide draw. Now gets the right draw, looks a strong chance but it does look an open sort of race.

Recommendations: Taking 12.0 MIGHTY COMMANDER here. Overraced badly ls 1200m and failed when coming off a minor injury and had not run for 7 weeks. Has won this c./d and does prefer to have pace on, which he looks to get here. 4.5 Units. A AMERIC TE SPECSO didn't do a lot l/week 1200m f/up but backing up quickly and has raced well like that before and goes well 2/up as well. He's going to get a long way back but pace suits. 1 unit. CALL ME TOPSEED had tough draws at 7 of 9 HK starts, inc last 6 runs. Likely improver here with soft draw/light weight. 1 unit at 21.0 with bookies.

11	3.7	VIRTUS GLORY	5.6 V	2	AURIO	>>>>
12	11.1	DEVAS TWELVE	23 V	1	DEVAS TWELVE	>>>>>>>>>>>>

The race: Average tempo. Speed looks evenly spread across the field here. Devas Twelve has pace, Gustosisimo, has Blkrs first time, so likely both holding a position but more Likely leaders Aurora Lady (Cheek Pieces on) and Royal Blitz, who hasn't run all that well but has been ridden for speed all 3 HK starts. Virtus Glory (got back and ran on to win ls for the apprentice from a wide gate but had previously shown good speed and expect Poon will look to be positive. The newcomer Majestic St Paul's (ex God Save The King AUS), led all the way only run Australia 1350m, so he has some speed but this might be a bit sharp for him to lead, judging by his HK trials?

The market: Early fav Greater Bae has a chance after good effort f/up after interference early stages, but no favours from the draw and handicapped to his best. Won't be surprised what runs fav here but Virtus Glory is progressive down in the weights and Aurora Lady has been good both runs back from long injury break and, back to C3 with good gate, has the form to carry this weight and win. Aurio an interesting one. On best form, we would rate him about a 7.5 chance but was genuinely disappointing l/s Sha Tin with Purton and now gets a big negative rider change to Osborne.

Recommendations: Can see plenty of reason to play away from some hard in the market like Greater Bae and especially Aurio. AURORA LADY – 1.5 units. VIRTUS GLORY – 3 units. INVINCIBLE STEED hasn't had a perfect map in his HK career and still hasn't but might get the right midfield trail here to be finishing off. At 13.0 with bookies – 2 units. DEVAS TWELVE is a 5-time winner who bled when he won a C4 in March then wasn't seen again until Sept. Has had some excuses in 3 starts this season, now maps to box seat here with very light weight and 31.0 with bookies 1.5 units.

11	8.5	MEOWTH	5.7	2	DYNAMIC BROSE	**>>>>>>>>>>>>?
12	4.3	SAVVY BRILLIANT	5.5	1	DA AI	**>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>

The race: Average tempo, potential for slower. On face value, looks a race that could be slower than average but has plenty of question marks in it and might ultimately end up generating an average speed, as a few roll the dice on keeping a forward position.. Da Ai went back HK debut 1000m wide draw but had been showing speed in trials prior, now has gate 1 and expect him to be more positive here. Dynamic Brose a query as he had led in win only start Australia, had shown speed In trials before ridden negatively from wrong-side draw down the straight at debut – now has 1200m and an inside gate?From the widest gate, Lucky River has shown enough pace in 2 starts HK to bid for the lead, and Power Koepp always a question mark but he did push forward l/s widish draw?

The market: Tricky race, with draw against Danica's Choice, who is in great form and early fav Savvy Brilliant racing well, but is a chronic start-misser who constantly finds trouble. Do You Just has a map and has trialled well but his ratings don't support him being so hard in the betting. Malpensa won well C4 l/s running on against the race shape and expect him to be much shorter than present. Meowth every chance l/s but does get the claim this time and a nice map so he will have support.

Recommendations: Have to play a few of these down in the weights. MALPENSA at 8.5 with bookies looks a good play – 5 units. SAVVY BRILLIANT carries the usual warnings but he does have Purton riding light & is very well handicapped – 1.5 units. The other runner of some value looks DA AI, who got back and found the line pretty well 1000m HK debut from wide draw. Looks like getting a much better map here. Taking 15.0 with bookies – 1.5 units.
